The train-robbing industry does not feed the hard times.

This ought to be the last Saturday before the election in the Senate.

Philadelphia is almost wide-awake over the reported shortage of $124,000 in gold at her Government mint.

The Giants are teetering in the West. It is up-to-day and down-to-morrow. Fortunately, the season is nearly over.

Davenportism is doomed. Republican flibusters in Congress have delayed, but cannot prevent, the wiping out of the system.

In the race for the Cape May Cup Britannia left plenty of room for the Navaho, but no room for doubt as to the result.

To-day 20,000 boomers rush into the Cherokee strip. It might be the opening of an empire within an empire, so far as numbers go.

A Brockway by name of Rathbone may have just as much weight when it comes to taking the testimony of Elmiria Reformatory inmates.

The announcement that the cashier of the Reform Club is a defaulter is not to be taken as an illustration of the effect of evil associations.

The darkness which enveloped the city this forenoon was enough to remind one of the Senate chamber in Washington during a debate on the silver question.

Let us not be too hard on Portugal for quarantining against us. Perhaps they have just heard that there was cholera in the lower bay last year, and are quarantining against that.

The reopening of suspended business establishments is going on with gratifying rapidity. It would go on even more rapidly if the Senate would close its debate and pass the Repeal bill.

The firm of Brockway & Co., paddlers and lawbreakers, is not dissolved by the retirement of the senior member. Business will be carried on as usual, as soon as the establishment is whitewashed.

Supt. Andrews says: "The conditions necessary for keeping the streets of the city clean have never existed." Observant people had guessed as much. But wasn't the Superintendent appointed to bring these conditions about?

Massachusetts is to try with her long-arm convicts a system of parole and good behavior similar to that abused at Elmiria. There may be good results under a proper application of the system, conducive both to good order in the prison and to reformation of the convicts. But it is trusted that the Bay State will not go further and adopt the Elmiria paddle as a reformatory means.

A woman spoke earnestly at the World's Fair Parliament of Religions yesterday on the subject of reforming Chicago. The Windy City may gather great encouragement from the fact that the speaker did not consider the establishment of Mahometan missions in the city as a means of spreading the practice of total abstinence. The experiment thus suggested would, if conscientiously undertaken, be watched with interest by the rest of the world. If successful, it might be extended to us to take in prohibition Maine, where liquor-dealers, legal and otherwise, are reported as flourishing at the ratio of one to every 300 inhabitants.
